LAUGHING ALL THE WAY TO THE MOSQUE BY ZARQA NAWAZ PDF

Zarqa Nawaz has always straddled two cultures. She's just as likely to be agonizing over which sparkly earrings will "pimp out" her hijab as to be flirting with the Walmart meat manager in a futile attempt to secure halal chicken the day before Eid. Little Mosque on the Prairie brought Zarqa's own laugh-out-loud take on her everyday culture clash to viewers around the world. And now, in Laughing All the Way to the Mosque, she tells the sometimes absurd, sometimes challenging, always funny stories of being Zarqa in a western society. From explaining to the plumber why the toilet must be within sitting arm's reach of the water tap (hint: it involves a watering can and a Muslim obsession with cleanliness "down there") to urging the electrician to place an eye-height electrical socket for her father-in-law's epilepsy-inducing light-up picture of the Kaaba, Zarqa paints a hilarious portrait of growing up in a household where, according to her father, the Quran says it's okay to eat at McDonald's-but only if you order the McFish.

their marriage was arranged and happy. Zarqa's original plan was to become a doctor ...

By Teena in Toronto

Zarqa's Muslim parents were from Pakistan and moved to the Toronto area when she was young ... their marriage was arranged and happy. Zarqa's original plan was to become a doctor but she ended up going to journalism school instead. When her brother wanted to get married, tradition stated that he couldn't until Zarqa was married so the search began for a husband for her. She married Sami and moved to Saskatchewan and they had four children. She directed some documentaries about Muslims before creating and producing the hit CBC show, Little Mosque on the Prairie.

This book contains her stories of growing up as a somewhat "modern" Muslim in the Toronto area and her life as a wife and mother in Saskatchewan ... dealing with being extra hairy, interviewing prospective husbands, going for hajj, explaining to a "white" contractor the need to have a water jug within reach when one is using the toilet, the impact of being Muslim after 9/11 and having to pray in separate areas from the men in mosques.

I didn't know much at all about Muslims and learned a lot. The author told her stories in a funny and comical way.

I enjoyed this book and would recommend it.

Understanding Islam With Humour

By Jamshed Mathur

This book is a collection of essays written by a Muslim immigrant woman living in Canada, partly in Toronto but mainly in Regina Saskatchewan.

She is married to a Muslim doctor who again is an immigrant to Canada. She has 4 young children. The writing, which is always fluent and easy to read, comes as a surprise because of her irreverent sense of humour. The humour is in total contrast to the picture of excessive seriousness, often laced with violent thought and action, one often sees in today's Islam. I found it a pleasure to read of Muslim conventions and attitudes, told by an authoress who understands her religion very well, but has not lost her commonsense and humanity. The chapter covering a pilgrimage to the holy city of Mecca is most informative and interesting for a non-Muslim reader.

I would strongly recommend the book to anyone searching for an understanding of Islam in daily family living.

50% biography, 50% Intro to Islam, 100% Hilarious

By Anelley

This book is hilarious. I picked it up originally because I was a fan of her show "Little Mosque on the Prairie." Knowing her style of humor, I expected it to be funny situations about Muslims. However like many comedy writers, she's much funnier than what you see on tv. I expected this book to be maybe a 4/5 but I was definitely blown away. I wish she would write more. Please write more!

This book would be enjoyed by anyone who wants to laugh along with Muslims. You don't need to know anything about her tv show (it only features slightly and situationally), nor do you need to know anything about Muslims or Islam. In fact, this book is part intro to Islam book in addition to being a biography of Ms.

Nawaz. If you want to know about Muslims in the West, skip the textbooks and "laugh your way to the mosque" along with Zarqa. You'll enjoy it much more.
